You will need a password.

Please get it from the library or a teacher.

The screenshot shows the Ed1Stop website for Contra Costa County Office of Education. The header includes the logo and navigation tabs for 'Welcome', 'Common Core Bridge', and 'Password Help'. A 'Sign In' section contains fields for 'Username:' and 'Password:', a 'Sign In' button, and a link for 'Forgot your username or password?'. A 'News' section features a post by John Swett (@jseroadrunners) dated 6 Nov, mentioning a search for kids search! #teamkid. A 'Welcome to ed1stop' message states the site's purpose and provides a link to 'available services'. Below this, 'Benefits of the ed1stop Portal:' are listed, including remembering one password, access from anywhere, dynamic material, and organizing lessons. Finally, 'What's Inside ed1stop:' includes 'AP Images' from the Associated Press, with a note about the volume of graphics and audio files available.
